My uncle become afflicted with tornado storm inside his head, but Japanese gentleman put both hands together outside kimona and make deep bow and say "Please excuse" plenty times.

So my uncle excuse, and then Japanese gentleman exclaimed the following "What you should do Sato San, if you wish to be be invited to Tokio to receive a special decoration from the Hon. Rotarians Hear Representative Of U. S. Publishers

Shanghai Will Get New Books Without Delay, He Says

Mr. H. M. Snyder, representative of fifteen American publishing houses, who is in Shanghai on an annual business trip to the Orient, was the speaker at yesterday's weekly tiffin of the Rotary Club at the Union Club rooms.

Mr. Snyder entertained the Rotarians with a number of anecdotes of the book publishing field. He related the story of how "The Cruise of the Kawa" was written in a New York hospital room by a patient who had tired of the endless series of South Seas romances and determined to write of the South Seas himself without ever visiting them. The book had a sensational sale throughout America.

American publishers, Mr. Snyder said, are now making arrangements to place the latest books on sale here as soon as they are sent to the book stores in New York.

The Rotarians next week will hear William Irvine, trade commissioner of the U. S. Department of Commerce, who is making a survey of automotive transport conditions in the Orient, and Acting Chief Gordon Dyson of the Shanghai Fire Brigade.

NEXT ELECTION TO DETERMINE INDIAN STATUS SAYS PREMIER

Lloyd George Sees Satisfactory Measure Of Success

WILL NOT GIVE UP

Victory For Extremists Would Complicate Problem

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 2.—In the course of a debate in the House of Commons today on the anxiety of British Civil Servants in India with regard to the effect of the Constitutional reforms on their position, Mr. Lloyd George said that in spite of drawbacks, there had been a very satisfactory measure of success in the great experiment of self-government in India but the real test would be whether moderates or anti-British extremists were returned at the next election. If the latter, that would constitute a serious situation which Britain would have to take into account. He emphatically declared that Britain would never relinquish her responsibilities to India but would take whatever steps were necessary to discharge or enforce them, because the withdrawal of the strong hand of Britain from India would result in anarchy. The British Civil Service must remain in India. The Government would see that they had fair play. The British Empire meant at all costs to continue to discharge her sacred trust in India and to fulfil her high destiny (cheers).

INDIANS SCORED FOR COWARDICE AT EGYPT QUIZ

Bavarians Silent On Ebert's Letter

(French Wireless Through Reuter)

Berlin, August 2.—Political circles in Berlin are commenting on the fact that, although five days have elapsed since President Ebert sent his communication to the President of the Bavarian Council, the latter has not yet found time to reply. The silence is interpreted unfavorably.

The communication in question embodied the declaration that the Imperial Government considered invalid the Bavarian decrees which infringed on Imperial legislation.

It pointed out the serious consequence which would attend Bavaria's refusal to apply the Republican Law on the right bank of the Rhine, and expressed the hope that Bavaria would conform to Imperial laws in the interest of Germany as a whole.

CANCELLATION OF WAR DEBTS TO AMERICA IS OPPOSED BY SENATORS

McCumber, Chairman Of Finance Committee, Says Congress Will Never Approve Step—Other Members Of Upper House Equally Emphatic

OPINION IN U. S. AVERSE, IS BELIEF

British And French Press Opinion Divided—Bankers' Representatives Express Belief American Elections May Change Attitude

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 2.—It is stated that representatives of American financial interests at present in London today expressed the view that, had Britain's readiness to cancel the debts owing her been carried out, the United States would have been morally compelled to follow Britain's lead, probably not immediately but after the general election. It is pointed out, however, that there is the political, as well as the financial side of the matter to be considered by the United States.

The opinion is expressed in well-informed foreign and Allied financial quarters that the Balfour Note will mean that the foreign Governments who have no foreign credits available except those from Germany will have to obtain the money needed for payment from Germany herself.

If the latter is not able to pay it is obvious that the Allied debtors concerned will not be in a position to produce the sums necessary and the moratorium requested by Germany will have to be given to the other cases. The view is generally expressed that the British standpoint is strictly honest and fair but it does not remove the present difficulty and does not bring the solution of the European economic chaos nearer.

[illegible] dwells on the fact [illegible]e of the British [illegible]rd to the can- [illegible] was adopted [illegible] greatest reluctance. In outlining the revised British policy, The Earl of Balfour lays down that while the Government regretfully constrained the request that France arrange the dealing with Anglo-French loans to the best of her ability, the amount of interest and repayments asked does not depend so much on what the Allied owe Britain as what Britain has to pay America.

London, August 2.—Early comments from the United States on the Balfour note quote Senator McCumber, Chairman of the Finance Committee, who declared in the course of a statement that "We will never cancel Britain's debt." Other prominent Senators are equally emphatic and American opinion is utterly averse to such a step.

London, August 2.—It is gathered that in official circles the impression obtains that the progress of the forthcoming conversations between Mr. Lloyd George and M. Poincare in London on the subject of inter-Allied indebtedness will be considerably assisted by the Earl of Balfour's Note.

This is regarded as a strong reaffirmation of the British intention to meet America's request for payment and in no way conveys the suggestion that America should cancel or remit portion of Great Britain's indebtedness.

It is not expected that the conversations will extend beyond three days as the only other question to be discussed relates to reparations.

London, August 2.—The British Note on inter-Governmental indebtedness is generally fairly well received by the press. Most of the criticism is mild. The Times fears that the prospect of securing a general settlement of the reparations question will not be improved by the Note owing to its effect on America.

The Westminter Gazette says that the case for the policy followed is manifestly strong but it would have preferred to set America an example of generosity by cancelling the indebtedness of our Allies.

The Daily News thinks that the Note is chiefly a warning to France.

The Chronicle suggests that a partial general cancellation of the European debt might be possible even without America if France were in the mood.

The Morning Post deeply deplores the Note which, it says, will annoy America and make France despair. The paper condemns applying charity in equal doses to France and Germany.

Paris, August 2.—The British Note is regarded as an appeal to opinion and as intended to show that the demand for repayment of France's and other countries'

KIUKIANG SCENE OF NEW OUTBREAK, AGENCY REPORTS

Traffic To And From Kuling May Be Interrupted By Mutiny Of Troops

Reports received from Kiukiang by the Kuo Wen News Agency tell that another outbreak of mutinous soldiers occurred at that center last night causing widespread destruction which may have a direct effect upon the foreign summer colony at Kuling.

No details are given by the report concerning the outbreak save that it developed about [illegible] o'clock Wednesday night and that looting by unrestrained soldiery continued through the night until 4 o'clock yesterday morning. The only troops at present in Kiukiang and the district about it are northern forces lately sent south from Hankow by the Peking Government to check the march of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's forces northward through Kiangsi. The British gunboat Gnat is now stationed at Kiukiang and it is reported a Japanese gunboat also is there.

While it is thought that no menace to foreign lives and property could arise by reason of a disturbance caused by troops at Kiukiang, it is not unlikely that an outbreak of the kind reported might tie up traffic for an indefinite time so that sojourners at Kuling would be unable to leave and delivery of supplies to them through Kiukiang would be interrupted.

Mutiny At Kiukiang, Foreigners Flee

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, August 3.—A Kiukiang telegram states that on the night of August 2 the 1st regiment stationed in the Chinese city mutinied, starting looting with the consequence that foreign residents outside the town took refuge inside the foreign settlement. Though there seems to be no sign of the mutinous soldiers attacking the settlement, communication and telephone services between the settlement and the Chinese town are interrupted. The real state of affairs there was not fully ascertained.

The allied volunteer corps of British and the Japanese residents there are protecting the lives and property of foreign residents, acting in concert with a British naval brigade.

REDS TAKE OLGA

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, August 3.—Reds occupied Olga on July 31. The White garrison has returned to Vladivostok.

debts cannot be attributable to Britain.

The Journal considers the request perfectly logical and remarks that Britain's insistence on repayment means that France must similarly demand payment from Berlin.

The Echo de Paris emphasizes that the time has come to affirm the priority of French reparations.

London, August 2.—A closer perusal of the British Note on Allied war debts serves to impress the importance of the views expressed on the subject which the Allies have so far displayed an inclination to fight shy of. The Earl of Balfour at the outset of his historic document, which is causing a profound stir, shows that, of the total of £3,400,000,000 war debts, excluding interest, at present due to Great Britain, Germany owes £1,450,000,000, Russia £650,000,000 and the Allies £1,300,000,000. On the other hand Great Britain owes the United States £850,000,000 at the par of exchange, with interest since 1919.

The Note proceeds to point out that no international discussion has yet been held on the unexampled situation which the foregoing figures partially disclose and, pending a settlement which would go to the root of the problem, the Government has silently abstained from making demands upon the Allies either in respect of interest or of capital.

It is shown that Britain is unable to adopt a policy that would be acceptable to her, as part of a satisfactory international settlement, of remitting all debts due to her by the Allies or in respect of German reparations, owing to the American Government, "with the most perfect courtesy and the exercise of its undoubted rights," requiring Britain to pay the interest due to her (America) and to convert the debt—Britain's debt to America—from an unfunded to a funded debt and repay it by a sinking fund in 25 years.

The Note admits and emphasises that such a contract accords with the original contract. "His Majesty's Government do not complain; they recognise their obligations and are prepared to fulfil them, but evidently they cannot without profoundly modifying the course [illegible] they would have wished [illegible] different circumstances.

The Note, [illegible] policy favored by [illegible] ment—to surrender their share of German reparation and write off the whole body of inter-Allied indebtedness, says that if this is impossible of accomplishment Great Britain in no event wishes to make profit from a less satisfactory arrangement. She does not propose to ask more from her debtors than is necessary to pay her creditors. "It should not be forgotten, though it sometimes is, that our liabilities were incurred for others, not for ourselves."

The Note stresses the fact of the immense quantities of food, raw material and munitions required to carry on the war and Britain's immense naval and military efforts; also that half of the £2,000,000,000 advanced to the Allies by Britain was provided by internal borrowing and war taxation, not by foreign loans,—a policy, unfortunately, that was beyond the power of the other European nations to adopt. This resulted in an appeal (during the war) to the United States, who insisted, however, in substance, if not in form, that, although our Allies would spend the money in the United States, the latter was only prepared to lend it on our security.

Breach Of Contract Is Alleged In Suit

Hearing of a suit based upon alleged breach of contract that was filed by Mr. P. L. Moore against the Far East Trading Company opened yesterday in the court of U. S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton. Mr. John W. Schoenfeld is representing the plaintiff and Mr. R. S. Haskell is appearing for the defendant.

According to allegations set forth in the petition and in testimony presented yesterday the defendant company contracted for purchase of 10,000 feet of aspen logs which the plaintiff acquired at Harbin and shipped to Shanghai by way of Vladivostok. It was set forth that the defendant delayed opening a credit for the logs and by reason of this their delivery here was not made until April when after a number of negotiations the defendant company refused to accept them.

KIUKIANG TROOPS MUTINY; LOOTING ENDED YESTERDAY

Serious looting and burning took place in Kiukiang yesterday according to reports received at the local yamen circles yesterday. Troops stationed in the Kiangsi capital mutinied on Wednesday evening and the town was ransacked by the bandit soldiery during all day yesterday.

Local troops quelled the mutiny shortly after 5 o'clock. The main thoroughfares were destroyed and the wealthy houses robbed, presenting a most pathetic scene.

Rio De Janeiro Preparing For Centennial Exhibit

(Chung Mei Service)

Rio de Janeiro, July 15.—Brazil is making a heroic effort to provide housing accommodations for the thousands of tourists expected to visit the Centennial exposition, opening September 7.

A dozen big new hotels are being rushed to completion in Rio and Sao Paulo, and at least five of them will be among the best in South America.

In Rio, the big new Hotel Gloria, overlooking picturesque Guanabara Bay, the Pao d'Assucar and the golden sands of Nichteroy beaches soon will be ready to open, but it is reported the government may take over the building to house foreign missions to the centennary festivities.

Farther along the drive of the Berra Mar, where the grim granite wall of Morro Viuva divides Flamengo and Botafogo beaches, workmen have blasted a road linking up the two sections of the shore drive and the municipality is completing a big new hotel which stands on the very brink of the ocean, at the entrance to the neck of water that divides the circular inlet of Botafogo from the bay proper.

From the verandas, guests can watch every boat that passes in and out of Rio harbor and can almost recognise their friends riding the aerial trolley to the cloud-swept top of Sugar-loaf.

One of the most pretentious of the new hotel project in the federal capital is the great beach hotel and casino being built in Copacabana—with the whole Atlantic ocean for a front yard—by the Guinle interests, owners of the down town Hotel Palace.

This hotel will probably be a center for society activities, with fashionable gambling on the side. It is rumored that a movement is under way to obtain government permission for the installation of roulette tables. If not, there are chemin-de-fer clubs in the neighborhood where speculative Americans can bet against the spinning ball.

A number of smaller hotels already have been opened in the federal capital and others are being built. Meantime some of the existing hosteirles, which usually are crowded to capacity, are reported to have increased their rates. The Central, a popular hotel with Americans, recently increased its minimum price for rooms without bath, European plan, to $4.00.

The municipality is prepared however, to prevent any gouging of visitors and plans to control prices are already under way.

Hotel construction also is booming in Sao Paulo, capital of the famous coffee state and an overnight ride from Rio on the Central to Brazil railway. Three new modern hotels soon will be opened.

The Sao Paulo Palace situated [illegible] of the famous Theater Municipal, will be one of the finest hotels on the continent, with 220 rooms with bath and hot and cold water. The water part may sound funny to Americans, but until a few years ago running water in Brazilian hotel rooms was unknown and most of the native-style hosteirles still stick to the pitcher and bowl.

Other unimportant matters were discussed.

Military and naval preparations for resisting attempts to violate the neutral zone are going on. Greek cavalry crossed the frontier at Kurfali this morning. EXTORTION CASE AGAINST MALONEY AND KEYES ENDS

Charges of attempted extortion upon which Mr. J. W. Maloney, wellknown baseball player and Mr. H. A. Keyes were arrested some weeks ago by authorities of the French Concession were dismissed yesterday in the court of U.S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton.

The action through which the case was dropped was taken by United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar who informed the court that the government had not sufficient evidence to substantiate the charges. At the same time Mr. Husar expressed regret that Majoney had been obliged to remain in custody for a short period before he obtained bail.

At the preliminary hearing at which the two accused were held for trial in the United States Court for China it was alleged that acting as operatives of a private detective agency they were concerned with certain Japanese and Koreans in a plot to extort money from a wealthy Chinese resident of the French Concession.

Non-Suit To Be Sought In Campbell-Gruenebaum Case

Plaintiff Seeking Tls. 25,000 Damages On Stand Through Day Under Cross-Examination

Interrupted by frequent clashes of attorneys hearing of the suit of Mr. Harry B. Campbell against Mr. H. Gruenebaum of Sonn Brothers and Company continued through the day yesterday in the United States Court for China before Judge C. S. Lobingier.

The action, in which damages in the sum of Tls. 25,000 are being asked, is based upon the charge that through false representations Mr. Campbell was induced to leave a valuable position with the Du Pont de Nemours Export Company to take the position of Sales Manager of Sonn Brothers and Company and subsequently was forced to surrender this position. Judge Cornell S. Franklin is representing Mr. Campbell and Mr. F. J. Schuhl is appearing for the defendant.

At the conclusion of yesterday's hearing Mr. Schuhl gave notice that he would offer a motion asking the court to dismiss the suit.

Through the greater portion of the two sessions of court yesterday Mr. Campbell was on the stand under cross-examination and another witness who gave testimony was Mr. T. H. Scanlon, Assistant Manager of Sonn Brothers and since last April liquidator for the firm.

TELLS OF CONTRACT

Under the questioning of Mr. Schuhl Mr. Campbell admitted that he had not signed the employment contract with Sonn Brothers with his eyes shut, asserting that he was familiar with business procedure and he said, in fact, that he had drafted the contract originally and had signed it after certain alterations had been rade by Mr. Gruenebaum.

Mr. Campbell admitted that he knew of the condition set forth in the contract under which it could be terminated by either party with sixty days notice and he admitted also that his salary had been paid in full and that he had signed receipts for full salary payments. Replying to one question Mr. Campbell said he could not recall that he had asserted that he 'would put the company on its feet.'

The witness denied that he had given guarantees concerning sales of merchandise and denied specifically that he promised the agency for the Du Pont company to Sonn Brothers or that he had promised to sell Tls. 10,000 worth of imitation leather a month.

Certain correspondence between Mr. Gruenebaum and Mr. Campbell was reviewed and this brought forth objection from plaintiff's counsel who was sustained by the court. Under further questioning Mr. Campbell admitted that about the time he left the employ of the Du Pont Company he had known that the company was curtailing expenses and reducing its staff here but said he had not believed he would be asked to go as he had proved himself valuable to the Du Pont company. He admitted that the salary that had been offered to him by Sonn Brothers was Tls. 1,050.

OTHER DETAILS

Mr. Schuhl in his questioning then referred at some length to the opportunities Mr. Campbell said had been promised to him and the witness replying said one important consideration that led him to take the position with Sonn Brothers was the assurance that had been given that he would be permitted to buy and sell at his own discretion without hindrance of action by the New York office and the understanding that he would be given ample financial support. Generalising he said all kinds of opportunities had been opened to him, but none of the promised things had been fulfilled. Answering further questions Mr. Campbell said he knew Mr. Gruenebaum was acting under direction of a board of directors at New York whose wishes would have to be met.

A subject that brought about some little controversy between counsel had to do with the alleged hiding of the firm's books from the plaintiff. Answering a question Mr. Campbell said he had been told that Mr. Scanlon had been under instructions to conceal the firm's financial standing from him.

In closing the cross-examination Mr. Campbell admitted that Sonn Brothers had lived up to the terms of their contract with him.

In the course of the testimony he gave Mr. Scanlon said he had been with Sonn Brothers for two years as assistant manager and latterly as liquidator. Replying to questions of Judge Franklin he said he was told by Mr. J. MacDonnell, Manager, that it would not be necessary to show the books of the firm to Mr. Campbell and he added that in April Mr. Gruenebaum had instructed him not to divulge to Mr. Campbell the financial standing of the firm. He admitted that at that time the firm was hard pressed for funds. The witness answering a question said the firm had never dishonored a draft but was unable to say whether or not certain drafts will be met in the near future.

When the financial troubles arose the witness said he had cabled to New York for funds and that a reply had been received. As the witness was unable at the time to recall exactly what this reply had contained Judge Franklin asked that the answering cablegram be produced.

In order to give the witness an opportunity to produce the cablegram the hearing then was adjourned.

Beer Parlor Continues As Big Issue In Chefoo

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, July 29.—The Beer Parlor has caused no end of a rumpus in this small community. The movement to get it closed continues and the Chefoo Daily News is still supporting the agitation. From what can be gathered few of the sailors attend the Summer Cinema which has the Beer Parlor and the show is not thought a financial success.

The gobs get fine pictures and excellent entertainments free at the Navy 'Y' where Mr. Brown and the members of his faculty work on their behalf.

But the boys are getting intoxicants and there are times when under the influence of drink they make themselves a nuisance. Things have not been as bad as they were two years ago, but they are getting that way. Small Chinese and Japanese beer shops are opening up and the community feels it cannot do anything to close them while Consul Kirke allows the license he granted to stand unrevoked. If he would close the beer parlor then the community would set to work a try and shut down the places that are doling out liquor. The correspondence between the British Consul and the International Committee of Chefoo has now been published in pamphlet form and it makes interesting reading. It looks much as though the issue is whether the Consular Body or some members of it are to control Chefoo's municipal matters, or the duly elected International Committee. Tax payers, we are told, are saying they will not pay the voluntary assessment unless they have some assurance that their elected body is given some voice in affairs that are similar to the granting of the permit to two out-of-town men to sell beer to the gobs.

The closing exercises of the C. I. M. Schools were held this week. Large numbers attended them on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. At the first two numbers of people could not get in to see the indoors entertainments as accommodation was insufficient. The Preparatory School had an interesting show while that at the Girls' School was a trifle too classical, the pianoforte Solos and Part Singing by the Upper School being from the three great Composers, Schumann, Grieg and Handel. But the entertainment was much enjoyed. The Display of calisthenics was well worth witnessing, the girls excelling with Clubs and marching in a style which brought much applause. The closing exercises of the Boys' School were in the open and so a bigger audience witnessed them. The singing, reciting and pianoforte playing were all good but the drill display was truly magnificent and among the vast concourse who saw the students perform was Mr. Van Hook, physical instructor at the Shanghai American School. The display was given in a tropical downpour of rain, yet the students performed with Wands, Naval Cutlasses and Indian Clubs as if there was no water streaming off them. The cutlass drill and the Indian club exercises were wonderful while the semaphore signalling and the dumb bell display ware par excellence.

A gymnastic display and marching were further items in the drill program which evoked at the close long and sustained applause.

The 'Y' Entertainments every night are simply great. Crowds of the gobs go to them, but the boxing night, Saturday, is the chief occasion. Chefoo's community, too, attends and the contests are most popular. Last Saturday night the attendance was estimated at being in the region of 1,300 and tonight the 'Y' anticipates another mighty crowd.

Shantung Envoys Debate Land Issue

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 31.—The tenth meeting of the first section of the Sino-Japanese Joint Commission was held at the Foreign Office this morning. Dr. C. T. Wang, Mr. Tang Tsai-chang, and Mr. Hsu Tung-fan were present representing China, and Minister Obata, Dr. Akiyama, and Mr. Debuchi representing Japan. Discussion centered on the following point.

The Japanese commissioners submitted to the Commission a proposal concerning the question of land property. As it was related to Articles 23 and 24 of the Shantung Treaty, discussion centered therefore on the interpretations of these two articles.

The Commission did not come to a conclusion and decided to continue the conversation at the next meeting.

Obituary

ALEXANDER G. BELL

(Reuter's Service)

Sydney, Nova Scotia, August 2.—The death has occurred of Mr. Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, at the age of 75 years.

Alexander Graham Bell stands out among the pioneers of telephony by reason of his common sense. He was the first to realise that pitch, loudness and quantity were the main factors in the audition and sensing of sounds by the human brain and what he sought to develop was an external ear that would reproduce electrical vibrations from a distant voice, not on a tape but in the human ear.

His invention has made millions of dollars for others but we wait the word that his legacies will make anyone rich.

Like all other inventors, his work has been attacked as to its priority by a horde of lesser lights that glimpsed a part of the problem but who either wound themselves up in a gossamer of theory and forgot the problem or others who stated the problem but failed to evolve practical apparatus to demonstrate it.

Bell did both of these things the elaboration of the theory and the devising of practical apparatus. His work had many followers, even the mighty Edison trailing along ringing some changes on the Bell bells. Had it not been for Bell, the radio with its broadcast possibilities would have lingered awhile and even Marconi would have been hard put to it for a receiver had not Bell's first telephone pointed the way. This was in 1876 when Alexander Graham Bell's patent was granted in the United Kingdom.

A Coffee Discovery

According to an Arabian legend, Hadji Omar, a pious Dervish, was outlawed from Mocha in the year 1285. When almost dying of hunger in the wilderness, he roasted some of the small round berries he found growing wild in the thickets. A few of the roasted berries accidentally fell into his drinking water, and thus coffee was discovered.

FRENCH WOMAN GIVES BIRTH TO SON IN AIRPLANE

Was Trying To Reach Home From Summer Resort

(China Press Service)

Paris, August 2.—Madame George Breyer, a French woman of Lyons, today achieved the distinction of being the first woman to give birth to a child in an airplane.

Madame Breyer was at a remote seashore resort in Southern Italy, where she felt the first warnings. She immediately chartered an airplane to take her home, and forty miles south of that city, 6,000 feet over the Mediterranean, she gave birth to the child.

Steadying the plane, the pilot drifted slowly to earth and landed near a tourist hotel, where first aid was given. Son and mother are doing nicely.

The child will be christened "Guynemeyer" in honor of the most famous French aviator of the war. The mother has purchased the airplane as a souvenir.

The question of the nationality of the child is not disputed as the French law specifies that a child takes his father's name regardless of place of birth.

Sikh Freed In $1,100 Theft Case In British Court

Charges of larceny of $1,000 in promissory notes, a $100 bill, $2 in silver, jewelry and several articles of clothing, which had been brought in the British Police Court against Ojagar Singh, an Indian, were dismissed by Magistrate G. W. King yesterday. The magistrate, in dismissing the charge, said that he had watched the accused closely and was struck by the way in which he had been in obvious terror throughout, even at the time when the promissory notes which he said were his own were being examined. Very reluctantly, he said, he felt that the prosecution had not proved its case.

The alleged theft was said to have occurred in the hut of a watchman on Markham Road, who had befriended the defendant and given him shelter, because he was unemployed.

In testifying today, accused said he had $10 when he first went to the hut, and had paid $5 as board. When he left the hut, he had $3, and had obtained $10 more from a Chinese to whom he had lent money. He left the hut after he had been accused of the robbery, and bought a bottle of whisky for thirty cents. Then he paid $8 for a motor car ride. He denied having stolen the money, notes and jewelry, and said that the charges made against him were false.

JAPS PLAY GOBS TOMORROW, CITY NINE ON SUNDAY

It is definitely established that the United States Legation Guard from Peking will not play here either tomorrow or Sunday as the Marines are starting a five-game series against a picked team from the American destroyers which have come down from Chefoo to Chinwangtao for the games.

The Marines have beaten the Fifteenth Infantry, Army champions of the Far East, and are out to wallop the destroyers before coming to Shanghai. As Shanghai has beaten the destroyers, the coming games with the Legation Guard here will determine the champion American baseball team of the Far East as there is nothing in Japan among the American nines that can touch either the 15th Infantry or the Marines.

Fort Mills has been a disappointment up North, having lost two at Tientsin and dropping two out of three to the Marines. After losing to the Legation Guard 2-0 and 10-0, the Manila team finally won a game by a score of 5-3.

The U. S. S. Isabel will probably play the All-Star Japanese team at the Race Course tomorrow afternoon with Shanghai playing the Japanese again Sunday afternoon.

Fort Mills will probably be here from August 12 to August 20, to be followed by the Marines, 15th Infantry and Meiji University. If Fort Mills can not arrange to get here for the series starting on the 12th, the Marines will come on that date.

The following will constitute the Cricket Club "A" team to meet the Shanghai Recreation Club tomorrow.

Six Other Second Matches In Second Round On For Today

Gulick and Barrett won into the third round of the Men's Doubles championship for 1922 yesterday afternoon on the S.C.C. courts over Gomes and Ribiero, after three excellent sets, 8-10, 6-3, 6-3.

The losing pair fought a hard battle in the first set taking the games to a total of 18 before the honor was decided. Both of the visiting players were playing sterling tennis, and deserved the win.

Gulick and Barrett settled down to a stronger game commencing with the second set, and with Gulick's fine serving and Barrett's clever placements the pair was able to take the next two sets and the match, not without, how-

Japanese Buying Art Objects Back

(China Press Service)

Tokio, July 28.—Japanese merchants who made large fortunes during the war and built themselves fine homes in the cities of Japan are sending to America and Europe for Japanese prints, paintings and curios to decorate them with. One New York dealer at least has sold numerous articles which he picked up in Japan years ago for a song and which he was unable to sell in America to these new merchant princes at very profitable prices.

For many years American and European collectors searched Japan successfully for objects of art until nearly all the old works, with the exception of those in private collections and museums had been exported. Now the Japanese being unable to find what they want in this line at home are sending abroad for them.

Of course they want the rea articles and generally something to match pieces which they already have. Articles for the tea service such as lacquer trays are in great demand.

MILITARY COUNCIL

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 3.—General Tang Chi-yao, the Military Governor of Yunnan, held a council on July 28 at which it was decided to support President Li Yuan-hung and to assist in hastening reunification.

Bangkok Editor On Way To Visit Lhama

Mr. J. E. Ellam, a member o, the Bangkok Times staff more than fifteen years ago, is coming East again. He served all through the war, being wounded twice and after leaving the Army he became editor of the Buddhist Review. H was to leave London on the 10th of last month for Calcutta via Colombo.

A Buddhist Mission is proceeding to Thibet, with a view to visiting Lhasa, and, if possible, interviewing the Dalai Lhama. Mr. Ellam is leading it. The object of the mission is archæological, literary and scientific research, and particularly the study of the Thibetan aspect of Buddhism.

The Government of India is sympathetically inclined to the Mission and has given the party facilities as far as Gyantze in Thibet—the remainder of the journey being arranged there.

The party hope to film Lhasa, and the results achieved will be recorded in book form, it is hoped to be published next spring.

A special stamp has been issued in connection with the journey and will be issued on correspondence in addition to the usual stamps for franking letters.

Tientsin Dispute Grows Out Of Sale Of Savoy Hotel

Tientsin, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Volgen, until recently Manager of the Hotel Modern, Italian Concession Tientsin, was arrested on Sunday night, on board the C.M.S.N. Co.'s Haitung, prior to that ship's departure for Chefoo and Shanghai.

Inquiry at the office of the Chief of Police, Special Administration for the Ex-German concession, where Mrs. Volgen is temporarily detained, elicited the information that several creditors, alleging that Mrs. Volgen owes them for goods supplied, brought the charge leading to her arrest and detention. The Chief of Police is awaiting orders from the Court as to the disposition of the case and the preliminary hearing.

The arrest is a sequel to a string of incidents connected with the fortunes of Savoy, renamed Modern Hotel.

Early this spring Mr. M. Pavlof approached the liquidator of the Savoy Hotel and eventually agreed to purchase the hostelry by April 15th. This he failed to do when the time came.

Subsequently Mrs. Volgen, for whom, it developed later, M. Pavloff acted, appeared in person and arranged to buy the Hotel on May 10. The terms were $5,000 down and $1,000 per month until the full price of $12,000 was paid.

Covering the terms of sale to Mrs. Volgen, in order that the creditors would be fully protected, a news item was inserted in the local press calling attention to the fact that until the purchase price was fully paid the furniture, fittings and other assets still belonged to the liquidator, acting on behalf of the creditors. Mrs. Volgen was further bound by the terms not to remove any articles from the Hotel, but when the auctioneer took possession to conduct the sale, he claimed to have found several articles, the property of the liquidator, were not in the Hotel.

The first payment was made and the first monthly instalment was paid in due course, but payment of the second monthly instalment was not made. Upon a grant of extention failing to assist Mrs. Volgen in her payment, the place was sold by auction by the liquidator of the Savoy Hotel.

The net result of this auction was sufficient to meet the demands of the original Savoy Hotel creditors, leaving about two hundred dollars balance.

Hunan Famine Taking Thousand Lives Daily

Hundreds of children of Yuanchow, Hunan, are turning bandit to get food. Armed with knives, they are butchering the defenseless and looting houses, which they then burn, dancing around the funeral pyre of their victims, more often than not members of the family of some one in the gang.

Such is the message that comes from missionaries of the China Inland Mission who are exerting herculean efforts to stem the tide of crime, burying scores of bodies, feeding hundreds of families and turning as many children as they can reach from lives of crime.

Eight hundred to a thousand Chinese die daily of famine in the district immediately surrounding Yuanchow, Hunan, says a message from a Mission resident at Yuanchow, and the China Inland Mission is gathering from 20 to 30 dead bodies every day in the streets of Yuanchow to give them decent burial. The Mission has also collected over 500 children in a camp, where they are fed and clothed at Mission expense. Most of the children are orphans of parents who died from starvation, while they gave their children the last few meals to sustain them.

The famine is increasing daily, and there are over 3,000 more children in the district requiring food, and who, if the food is not forthcoming, will certainly perish. The message, from Mr. Hermann Becker reads:

"How often have we seen a woman lying dead in the street and one or two children sitting beside her. Only last Sunday a boy five years of age was in the street and we spoke to him, but he said nothing. Others told me that his father had died the day before and his mother some weeks before. He would not stay with us and was always looking for his father."

Other older boys throw themselves on the street before me crying for help. As they looked more dead than alive we took them to the orphanage. We ought to take at least 1,000 from the street, but as we are short of funds we cannot do it. As the funds come in we will do more.

"Fifty times and more I had for some reason to go to the robbers. The famine is producing more robbers day by day. We have in this district thousands of robbers and it is hard to travel. Many of these famine children are going to the robbers. I have seen many children of eight to twelve years of age with big knives on their backs with the robbers and these young robbers are worse than the older ones. They are always burning the houses and killing the people. Four hundred and ninety-five families are without homes as hundreds of these children have burned their houses outside this city.

"To save these children from starvation and from going to the robbers we ought to take in at least 1,000 orphans. But what that means you know very well. We are not in a position to do it now and of the 600 we have taken from the street, we will have to send away at least 400 after about a month.

"They will have to die or the bad ones become robbers. We can read much about Russia and the great famine there, but about the very severe famine here not as big as in Russia but as bad or still worse you will have not heard much. We are saving thousands of lives but we ought to do much more.

"We have opened an orphanage for 150 children. We are longing for it to take more children in but. The city has given us a fine place for an orphanage but we hope to get a still bigger place behind our compound and build some houses on it for an orphanage.

"There is hope for a 50 percent harvest but we are needing rain soon or the harvest will be lost again this year for the third in succession. The harvest here is in September but it will not help at once these hundreds and thousands of famine sufferers. We will have to go on with relief work for some time.

"Besides these 600 children we have in the city a place with more than 100 infants that were thrown on the streets to die. We are caring for them now, but what shall we do with them later? So you see what we are needing is funds. Some friends who heard about the serious famine have done all they could. I do thank them in the name of these starving people."

Chinese Women To Become Militant For Their 'Rights'

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 31.—The Chinese woman's suffrage group which has just come to life, is apparently working on the idea that vociferous publicity will gain the ends desired. The members have issued another manifesto on the subject of woman's place in the world. They deplore China's isolation in being practically the only country in the world in which no steps have been taken to gain woman her rights.

They talk about the change in the world whereby governments are taken out of the hands of the capitalists and given over to the people. Therefore, the Chinese women want their share of this power. None too much trust is placed in the ability of China's women to enter politics, wisely they assert, but in order to advance themselves to such a stage, they must first be protected.

They realise that equality in knowledge should precede equality in political rights, but to guarantee this equality in knowledge, they demand the other first.

ARCHITECT SUES AFTER BUILDING IS ABANDONED

Work On New Tannery halted; Seeks To Collect Damages

Damages amounting to in excess of Tls. 2,000 are asked in a suit which is being heard in the British Supreme Court by Judge Peter Grain. The complainant is H. Fittkau, an architect, and the defendant J. U. Hsu, trading as the Li Shang Trading Company. The basis of the action lies in the decision of the defendant to abandon work on a proposed tannery building in Chapei.

Mr. P. W. Goldring, who appeared for the plaintiff, divided the claim into three parts: Tls. 150 for a survey made in Frenchtown; Tls. 429.71, or one percent of the price of the building, which was Tls. 42,971, and three percent on the original contract price or on the ultimate cost.

In August of last year, Mr. Goldring said, defendant had entered into a contract for the erection of the tannery. He employed Mr. Zerle as architect. He, however, was called back to Europe, and turned the work over to Mr. Fittkau. Work was commenced in September. The Chinese authorities, however, refused to approve the plans because they held that provisions for carrying off the water and refuse from the tannery were insufficient. Mr. Fittkau then prepared an entirely new set of plans, and it was for these that he claimed one percent of the price of the building. The third part of the claim was made for damages for breach of contract, because some time in March of this year, defendant said that he could not afford the money and that work on the building must stop.

Mr. Fittkau took the stand and gave evidence along the lines indicated by Mr. Goldring in his statement. The contract price for the original plans was Tls. 34,000 and for the new plans Tls. 42,971.

The defendant did not refuse to accept the second tender. Witness received nothing in writing refusing it, and he therefore understood it to be accepted.

Mr. Ferdinand Buhrkoff, leather expert for the defendants, told how Mr. Fittkau was engaged. The alterations in the plans were not absolutely necessary, but they improved the building considerably.

Mr. Kentwell, in opening the case for the defense, said that with regard to the claim for Tls. 150, the plaintiff had never been asked to do this work. Nor had he been asked to draw up new plans for the tannery. He merely agreed to supervise the building of a tannery at 3 percent.

Hsu Yuen-ling, carrying on business as the Li Shang Trading Company, said that Mr. Fittkau had accepted two percent on the original tender. When the question of altering the plans came up, he had written Mr. Fittkau saying that these alterations should be without charge to the company. In February, plaintiff was told several times by witness that the additional charges were unreasonable. The alterations were made in spite of protests.

Wuhan Strife Over Admiral Continues

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, August 3.—Upon receipt of an official report that Dr. Wang Chung-hui has assumed the portfolio of Acting Premier, General Hsiao Yao-nan, Tuchun of Hupeh, has today despatched a congratulatory telegram to the Peking Government.

Admiral Tang Hsiang-mien gave a banquet at 3 this afternoon, to which he invited several hundred leading members of all public bodies of Wuhan. The secret strife between the two contending factions for and against Admiral Tang has become more vigorous than ever.

These factions are each obstructing the holding of their opponents' meetings, leading to scuffles. A few scores of carriages and motor-cars were destroyed yesterday.

A regiment of recruits, whom General Tsai Chen-hsun has levied in Honan and Chihli in order to supplement the 12th Division, passed Hankow last night, hastening to Kiangsi to join the Northern troops which the province populace has asked to leave.

NEAR EAST ISSUE

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 2.—Conversations are continuing between the French and British Governments on the Near East question. Le Temps declares that the proclamation of autonomy for Smyrna is inconsistent with the peace propositions formed on March 26 and has no juridical value.

HOPES FOR OPEN DOOR

(French Wireless Through Reuter)

Paris, August 2.—Le Temps learns that Japan is renewing negotiations with the Chita Government. It is hoped, the newspaper says, that some arrangement may be come to before the withdrawal of the Japanese troops—a commercial agreement which would maintain the policy of the open door in Siberia.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

August 3, 1922

Spot bar silver was up ⅛d. and forward unchanged in London yesterday.

The New York price as well as the London-New Yord cross rate was also unchanged.

Our official rates here were the same as yesterday and business was done at practically the same levels.

The market was very quiet indeed throughout the day with practically no business passing.

There were sellers of Sterling at 3-5 11-16 for forward delivery and of Gold Dollars at 77¼ with buyers at 3-5⅝ and 77⅝ respectively.

A small amount of business was done in Yen at 61⅞ and there were generally sellers at these rates.

Banks were quoting 3-6⅛ for Sterling bills and 78¾ for Gold Dollar bills.

There were buyers of Franc T. T. at 955 and of Franc bills at 975.

The Continent again sold a small amount of silver in London yesterday and India bought.

The market is reported as steady.

The New York market is easy with sellers rather than buyers.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending Wednesday:

Exchange.—The price of silver in London has moved within narrow limits during the past week, and today's price 35⅛d. spot and forward is ⅛ higher than this day last week. The market is reported as steady, but it would seem that the steadiness is caused more by small offerings than by any market demand for the metal. India has been a small supporter, but, as anticipated, China appears to have been out of the market. The T.T. rate on London remains unchanged at 3s. 5⅛d., with ⅛d. over this rate offering. Locally the market is lifeless, the volume of business passing in regard to imports and exports being negligible. Stocks of sycee continue to increase, and as far as one can see, we can only repeat that no support to the market can be expected from this end for the time being.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 37,744,000, an increase of Tls. 758,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $33,810,000, an increase of $260,000.

Estimated value Tls. 62,087,000 as against Tls. 50,220,000 held at this time last year.

Singapore Rubber Auction

Singapore, July 19, 1922

During the week under review the London market has remained stagnant at 7⅛d., and New York equally dull at 14½ cents. The local market has been steady at a slightly higher level; local representatives of the American manufacturers have been buying steadily at the lower prices, and there has been a general absence of sellers at the equivalents of the consuming markets.

There was a fair, steady demand at today's auction, where 753 tons were put up for sale, of which 486 tons were offered and 337 tons sold.

Prices, however, show practically no change since our last report.

Awarded Singapore Standard Sheet found ready buyers; a few lots were sold at 25 cents, but the greater part catalogued was withdrawn, and disposed of in the outside market.

Sheet equal to Standard was easy of sale, together with good parcels of F.A.Q. Sheet.

Off Quality Sheet was in fairly good demand.

No sales of Awarded Singapore Standard 1st Latex took place.

State Capitalism, Where The Train Drives The Engine!

NOTE: In the following remarkably frank statement (whatever else may be said of it) we have Lenine's judgment up to date of his experiments with State Capitalism, this judgment being founded wholly upon his own experiences in trying to make it a success. This is part of an address he delivered to the Constituent Assembly in Moscow, recently, just as Chicherin was departing for Genoa. He is clearly at sea without a compass on a dark night, or as he puts it, he is the engine driver of a train and the train is driving the engine. In other words he feels that Karl Marx, the train dispatcher, left something out of the orders. He even, rather patheticall-ly, says this.

The train however is on its way. It has been on its way for five years. And the driver thinks that the passengers ought to agree to turn back and switch off at some junction in another direction. He has switched off several times himself but finds he hasn't got anywhere, and this, too, he proclaims. Now he feels that he has done the best he can to find out where the train ought to go and to send it there, but admits he has always failed to find out where it ought to go or where it is going. Some force of which he is ignorant seems to be directing the train. He seems mainly to think it is the people of Russia; without, however, being aware of the fact themselves.

In addressing themselves to an analysis of this speech our readers must bear in mind the fact that Lenine had been ill just before making it and had gone through a mental and physical ordeal such as few men could withstand over a period of years in a country torn from end to end and top to bottom by revolution, pestilence, famine and invasion: and that he was addressing a congress that had undergone the same perils and privations lacking the information and intellectual spirit and fortitude which sustained him.

In any event, we ask our readers to study this latest utterance of the leader of Russian Bolshevism. It shows how far he has gone in his leading, if that it can be called, for he seems merely to be running ahead of the herd, and it is certainly, in view of the catastrophe in Russia, resulting from the great experiment in state capitalism, otherwise the Socialistic State,—it certainly, after five years of trial, is interesting:

BY NIKOLAI LENINE

WITH REGARD to the question of state capitalism our Press and our Party generally commit the mistake of falling into intersectualism and liberalism. We speculate on the conception of state capitalism and consult old books. But in these there is written something quite different. These refer to state capitalism and it develops under the rule of capitalism. But there exists no book which deals with state capitalism, which is established under the dictatorship of the proletariat. Even Marx has not written a word on it and he died without having left the exact quotation or any incontrovertible directions. Therefore we are obliged to help ourselves without the aid of quotations.

I have attempted to go through our Press. In its preparations for today's report on the question of State capitalism it is dealing with something quite different, but which however accompanies it. In all the literature on economics, state capitalism is defined as that capitalism which is developed in the capitalist economic order when the state power has got under its direct control this or that capitalist undertaking. But we have a proletarian state which is based upon the proletariat. Its various bodies are elected from the proletariat. Our state gives to the proletariat all the privileges and directs the peasantry from below through the proletariat.

You will remember that we have commenced this work with the Poor Peasants' Comittees. Therefore many of us are confused by the conception of state capitalism. In order to avoid this confusion we must always keep firmly in mind that state capitalism in the form in which we have it at present has not been analysed in any theory or in any literature for the simple reason that all conceptions connected with this term have regard to bourgeois power in capitalist society.

We have a state which has left the capitalist track and has not yet entered on a new track. This state is not ruled by bourgeoisie but by the proletariat, and we do not understand that when we say "State" that this state is ourselves, the proletariat, the vanguard of the working class. State capitalism is that capitalism the limits of which we shall be able to reduce and to define; this state capitalism is connected with the state and the state with workers, the most progressive portion of the workers, the vanguard; this is ourselves. State capitalism is that capitalism to which you have to fix certain limits but which we have not been able to till now. That is everything. And it depends upon us what this state capitalism is to be.

We have sufficient political power, perfectly sufficient; we have at our disposal sufficient economic means, but that vanguard of the working class which is elected to carry out this work, to define the limits, to subdue others in order not to be subdued itself, lacking the knowledge. Only knowledge is wanting. We have a situation unprecedented in history; the proletariat, the revolutionary vanguard, possesses sufficient political power (in the last resort a little more than necessary); at any rate it is not in the least lacking in political power. The chief point of the question is that we understand what this capitalism is which we can and must permit, to which we can and must define certain limits, since it is necessary for the broad masses of the peasants and for private capital to trade in such a way that the ordinary course of capitalist economy and of capitalist circulation is assured and this latter is necessary for the people who cannnot live without it.

You communists, you workers, you, the most conscious portion of the proletariat, you who have undertaken the guidance of the state, be capable of causing the state which you have taken in hand to act according to your will!

A year has passed, the state is in our hands, but has the state during the past year acted according to our will with regard to the new economic policy? No! We do not like to confess this. But the state has not acted according to our will.

How has it acted? We are losing control over the machine. It would seem that the man who is sitting at it is directed by it. In reality the machine is not going where it is intended to go but somewhere where some unknown person is guiding it. This unknown cannot be exactly defined. Is it illegal or does it come from God knows where? Are they speculators or private capitalists or both?

Whatever it may be, the machine is not running quite as the man who is sitting at the steering wheel of the machine desires it to. Very often the direction the machine takes is very different from the one it is taking in the imagination of the driver. This is the fundamental thing to be considered in the question of state capitalism. In this fundamental question we have to learn, and only after the necessity for this has been thoroughly drilled into everybody is there any guarantee that we shall learn it.

What Did Sherman Say?

Did General Sherman really say "War is hell," as he has a million times been quoted? One of his old soldiers denies it most circumstantially. Thomas D. Collins, who was one of the General's dispatch bearers, declares that he stood within a few feet of him on the occasion on which he is said to have uttered that epigram and that his words were: "War is cruel. I cannot refine it." That was at Fayetteville, N. C., when the city authorities came out and begged him not to march his army into the place.

That is, obviously, strong and direct testimony, and it is supported by two indisputable circumstances. One is the marked similarity in sound of the words "cruel" and "hell," which would make it easy for a listener to make a mistake. The other is the correspondence between Mr. Collins's version and some other utterances of Sherman's in writing. Thus in a letter to General Steele he said: "War at best is barbarism;" and of his famous reply to the protest of the Mayor and Council of Atlanta against his treatment of that city he said, "War is cruel and you cannot refine it." This latter remark is almost identical with that of Fayetteville, as given by Mr. Collins.

The controversy may never be settled, any more than other disputes over other noted sayings. Were it absolutely demonstrated that Sherman never said "War is hell" people would keep right on attributing those words to him, just as they have for so many years been attributing "The Guard dies, but never surrenders!" to Cambronne, and "Finis Polonine!" to Kosciusko.

If, however, we were compelled to forego that virile and picturesque phrase we should have consolation in another and unchallenged utterance of the same great campaign, not by Sherman but addressed to him. When Sherman at Kenesaw signaled to the beleaguered Corse at Allatoona a message which hymnologists have paraphrased into "Hold the fort, for I am coming!" his indomitable lieutenant replied, lieutenant replied, in words which the hymnologists have dodged, "I am short one ear and part of a cheekbone, but am able to whip all hell yet!"

Also, it seems certain that on that August morning in Mobile Bay Farragut did say "Damn the torpedoes!" Probably it was in reminiscence of that gallant objurgation that, at New York's great feast of honor given to him at the old Astor House, he replied to an eminent cleric who remarked upon his keeping his wine glasses turned down, "No Bishop, I don't drink. I swear a little sometimes, but I don't drink!"

So we shall not have to Bowdlerise all the Famous Sayings of Famous Men.

Sherlock Holmes On "The Finest"

Though it needed no ghost to come from the grave to tell us this, it was good to have the late-departed and much-lamented Sherlock Holmes give us his authoritative comment upon the excellence of our New York policemen, says an exchange.

Through the mouth of his creator, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who is expert in criminality and its control and in all the varied requirements of an effective police force, we get the following glowing tribute to the New York Police:

"Twenty-eight years ago, when I was in New York City, your police were comical looking.

"But today your force consists of young, athletic, stern looking men, who go out looking for crooks and not graft. They are the finest body of men I have ever seen. Even our London force is no better. They are a fine tribute to your city and your Mayor and your Police Commissioner."

The School Of Auction Bridge

BY R. F. FOSTER

It is curious that while the conventional double has now become accepted as an integral part of the game of auction the English players will have nothing to do with it. They regard it as a sort of private convention. Dalton, in his latest book, just published by De La Rue in London, does not even mention that there is such a thing as a conventional double.

At the same time, he advocates the double of a suit that overcalls partner's no-trumper, instead of going to two no-trumps. The importance of this double strongly insisted on in "Foster on Auction," in which the partner is advised never to go two no-trumps unless he can do it all himself, but to leave that to the no-trumper, who will not have to increase the contract.

If this is not a convention, what is it? Dalton gives this example, held by third hand:

H. Q J 7 3 C. K 8 D.10 5 4 S 3 6 5

The dealer bids no-trump, second hand two hearts, third hand doubles, "to show that he could hold the heart suit." Then, says Dalton: "The dealer went back to no-trumps and won the game, but could not have done so without the information given him by the double."

There is one point about conventional double that is important but which is more likely to be overlooked by the doubler than by the partner. This point is that all doubles are aimed at getting a no trumper or a major suit for the final bid. This should lead the doubler to be careful to have enough in the major suits to support a weak take-out, and should also suggest to the partner the greater possibilities of major suits as compared to no-trumpers. In the chart is an example, from the duplicate game at the Knickerbocker Whist Club.

Z dealt and bid a heart. A and Y passed but B doubled. This Z passed, waiting to see what A would say.

Those who thought the four spades to the eight were too weak to call took a chance that four to the jack would stop the hearts, unless Y had a higher honor and could get Z in to lead through. Those players went to no-trumps.

Those who regard a single stopper in a suit in which one adversary probably holds five or more cards as not very strong, took out the double with a spade. No matter which the take-out was, it was left alone.

Against the no-trumper Y led the top of his partner's suit, or the lowest, it did not matter which. Knowing that A must have the jack well guarded, Z let it ride and the jack won. There was nothing for A to do now but to lead three rounds of spades, so as to set up a trick in that suit. Y declared the small dimond.

Y made his three heart tricks, A discarding a diamond and two clubs. Z read his partner's diamond discard as weakness, and boldly led the king of clubs up to the ace, Y playing the encouraging nine. (This convention the English have welcomed with open arms and universally adopted.) Dummy held up the ace, but won the next club lead. Dummy made his spade, Y shedding a club, so that before or after two diamond tricks Y made a club, or Z a diamond, leaving A just the odd trick.

At the tables at which A took out the double with the other major suit, calling the spades, regardless of their weakness, he went game. The opening was the same, the top heart, that being the rule against a suit call always.

Z won the trick. Instead of going right back with the heart and letting dummy get in a ruff, Z led a small diamond. The nine drove the queen, and the ace won. This made it easy for the dummy to return the suit and finesse the ten. Then a club allowed dummy to make the ace and return that suit.

Now if Z tries to stop the impending ruff by leading a trump, he accomplishes nothing, because A still has plenty of trumps left, so Z leads the diamond, putting A in. Then dummy ruffed a heart, leading a club, Z shutting off the ruff by putting on the jack of trumps.

That was all Z could do, so that A and B made their four odd on the play, winning the game. It should be observed that even if Z returns the heart at the second trick and gets in again to ruff dummy a second time, A still wins the game, either by making the fourth heart or getting the dimond finesse.

Why You Should Go North To Gain Weight

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"Please explain why a person weighs half as much half way to the equator. There has been much difference of opinion, and I would be very grateful if you would explain it.—Miss I. S., Roxbury, Mass."

I am glad to find so many young women interested in such thoughtful questions. To begin, I must correct your information about the amount of the loss of weight suffered by persons who go toward the earth's equator.

If it were as much as you state there would be a rush of extra heavyweights equatorwards, to the detriment of anti-fat foodstuffs; while the famous visitor from Mars, whom we are always invoking, if not actually expecting, might go home with a wonderful story of a world whose population was arranged in latitudinal zones, the big fellows being concentrated along the equator, the medium-sized ones in the middle latitudes, and the lightweights about the poles!

The loss of weight instead of amounting to one-half, is, in reality, a very small fraction. In fact, if you should start at the North or the South Pole and go to the equator you would find that the total loss of weight amounted to only about 1-190 of its original amount. That is to say, if you weighed, with a spring balance, ninety-five pounds when you were at the Pole, you would be half a pound lighter when you reached the equator.

But I hope that your curiosity extends to the cause of this loss of weight—and I have no doubt that it does. The cause is two-fold—centrifugal force, due to the earth's daily rotation on its axis, and varying distance between the earth's surface and its center of gravity, due to increase of the girth of the globe as the equator is approached. This increase of girth or "bulging" of the earth in the equatorial portion is itself a result of centrifugal force.

The centrifugal force is greater at the equator than anywhere else because the circumference of the earth being largest there, the tangential velocity at the surface is greatest. Right at the poles there is no centrifugal force, because there the surface has no tangential velocity. I must leave you for the present to find out for yourself the definition of "tangential velocity," but you can see practically what is meant if you reflect that standing on the pole, you would simply be turned round by the earth's rotation once in twenty-four hours, while if you stood on the equator the rotation would carry you forward about a thousand miles an hour, and you would be something like a stone whirled at the end of a string, for your forward motion would have a tendency to shoot you off the earth.

And, indeed, if with you on the equator the earth should start rotating at a speed of about 1,700 miles an hour instead of 1,000 you actually would be detached, for the centrifugal force would be equal to the earth's attraction, i.e., to your weight, and you would weigh nothing, so that the earth could not prevent you from flying away, like an angel.

But then the funny thing is that a 300 pound person would fly away just as easily as you, because the diminution of weight would have the same proportion for all bodies, from which we might argue that weight is not the sole criterion of an angel.

Now, considering the other cause of the diminution of weight at the equator, which acts together with the centrifugal forces, viz., the increased distance from the earth's center of gravity, we find that you would be about 13 miles farther from the center when you were on the equator than when you were on one of the two poles. But the force of gravity (which is what gives weight) decrease with increase of distance. It is also in this case dependent upon the shape of the earth and the difference of density between its exterior and interior portions.

So the effect, in sum, of your going from the pole to the equator would be a loss of weight amounting to about 1-590. The loss due to centrifugal force amounts to 1-289, and the sum of these is about 1-190, representing the total loss, as before explained.

Between the poles and the equator the change of weight is roughly proportional to the square of the cosine of the latitude, but that probably is too technical a matter to interest you, though it would be more interesting if the weight changed by a considerable amount.

If you took 1,900 pounds of gold, worth say $460,000, from the pole to the equator, it would lose ten pounds of weight, or $2,400 in value, if weighed by spring balance. But you could save the loss by having the gold weighed by balance-scales, because then no change of weight would be shown, since the "weights" in the pan would lose in the same proportion as the gold.

Monuments That Live And Grow

BY HENRY S. WILLIAMS

A man's useful work establishes the best possible monument to his name. If the work is of such character that it is useful not merely to contemporary but to succeeding generations, the monument is enduring, whether or not the originator's name continues to be associated with it. And the name, after all, is a matter of no great consequence, except to the man himself and his immediate descendants. Few names, even of great discoverers, ever become household words, or persist except in historical archives. And even there, few names indeed are insured lasting recognition, because the records themselves are perishable.

All civilization is founded on a few great inventions, and the major part of these are of nameless origin. Nobody knows who first conceived the value of artificial fire, or who first smelted metals, or first made pottery, or conceived the idea of depicting thoughts in the form of words. No one knows who first used a lever, or first made a boat, or contrived the marvelous invention called a wheel.

No one knows who first domesticated animals, or who first practiced the art of agriculture We do not know the names of the ancient Burbanks who gave us cultivated varieties of wheat, oats and rye and of most types of orchard fruits. If the names of these men of genius were ever matters of historical record, the record have been obliterated.

Exception must be made, however, of a few varieties of fr... that have been developed wit... the past century or two, with wi... the names of their developers h... been associated in common us... Three such examples, familiar... every orchardist, are the Bald... apple and the Seckel and Bart... pears. The trees on which th... fruits grow constitute perpe... monuments to their originator... monuments that grow and dev... and spread across the zones, per... nially benefiting mankind phys... ly just as works of art benefit... mentally and spiritually.

Only one original tree, of all... thousands of trees that ... Baldwin apples, grew on its ... roots. So in a sense it can be ... that there has been but a sin... Baldwin apple tree, and that th... tree performs the paradoxical fe... of growing in a thousand place... at once, having perennial life. S... long as men continue to like Bald... win apples, and thus take th... trouble to graft Baldwin twigs o... root stocks, this hydra-limbed tre... of multiple personality, is assure... perpetual life.

And by the same token, the nam... of the originator will continue t... be almost a household word, thank... to this curious monument, lon... after most of his once famous con... temporaries are forgotten.

Agitation Against Tang Engineered By Enemies

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, July 30.—Factions taking sides with respect to the appointment of Admiral Tang Hsiang-ming as Civil Governor continued warring among themselves yesterday until 4 p.m., when Tuchun Hsiao Yao-nan announced in an official proclamation posted everywhere in Wuchang that in response to assiduous popular request he had been compelled to act as concurrent Civil Governor from date until advised by Peking.

This episode further discloses, it is asserted, that the whole muddle of opposition, popular demonstration against Tang, mob actions, and the rest of it was from the beginning engineered by militarists of Hupeh who own Tuchun Hsiao Yao-nan as their leader.

Admiral Tang Hsiang-ming called on Tuchun Hsiao Yao-nan yesterday afternoon at 2 p.m., but just then the Tuchun and the militarists were holding an emergency meeting to discuss measures for leaving Admiral Tang out in the cold. Admiral Tang, duly appointed by a Peking Mandate signed by President Li Yuan-hung, was refused an interview by the Tuchun who informed Tang that he would pick him up in about three days. Admiral Tang thereby returned to Hankow and took up his residence in the ex-German Concession.

But at four o'clock he was informed that Tuchun Hsiao proclaimed himself concurrent Civil Governor of Hupeh, in spite of the fact that Peking's President appointed Tang for the job. Thus the militarists successfully defied the prestige of a Peking mandate, and Admiral Tang, not withstanding his credentials from the Capital, "muffed the ball."

At the emergency meeting in the Tuchuns' yamen, some 54 "representatives of civilians of Hupeh" sat at a table with Tuchun Hsiao, and these militarists, who are mostly commanders of Hupeh native troops, impersonated as civilian representatives, summarily brought forth the proposition that they earnestly desired that Tuchun Hsiao Yao-nan would consent to assuming the concurrent post of civil governor.

They said that the quarrel had done a great harm to Hupeh, and that only this method would settle the brawl satisfactorily. With an air of pretention and affected ignorance of the militarists' machination. Tuchun Hsiao responded that he did not wish to overstep his authority in the matter as only Peking has the authority to appoint a governor.

However, as the civilians all insisted that he should assume charge, he felt compelled to assume the duties for the time being in order to tide over the situation peacefully. Meanwhile he informed the gang that he would telegraph to Peking asking for instruction as to what to do next.

When discussions were proceeding most favorably to Hsiao a secretary of the retired civil governor said that he had received instruction from the new governor to hand over the seal to him at Hankow. Those present unanimously replied that they had elected Tuchun Hsiao as permanent civil governor, and therefore the request of the governor appointed by Peking should simply be ignored.

In advising Peking about Admiral Tang Hsiang-ming's arrival Tuchun Hsiao Yao-nan presented his own story of the actual conditions. He said that popular demonstrations strongly condemned Admiral Tang and refused to accept him as their civil governor. The civilians at the same time compelled Hsiao himself to take charge of the civil administration, and he said he had complied with their request because he did not choose to see the situation being complicated. In addition he asked Peking for instruction as to the disposal of the Civil Governorship.

Chinese papers in Hankow criticised Tuchun Hsiao by saying that had he taken steps to maintain order in Wuchang, these so-called civilian mobs, which were composed of coolies and rogues paid for at $1 per day for services as "civilian representatives," would not have appeared at all. The worst mobs occurred in Wuchang where they threw into the river the rickshas of those who prepared to welcome Admiral Tang in Wuchang, and beat their coolies most mercilessly. These demonstrations took place only because Tuchun Hsiao previously acquiesced in the actions of his collegues and militarists.

Admiral Tang has returned to Hankow, and his telergams to President Li Yuan-hung were all suppressed by order of Tuchun Hsiao Yao-nan.

BELGIAN CONGO CELEBRATES, WITH FINGERS CROSSED

(Chung Mei Service)

Boma, Belgian Congo, July 1.—Yellow star and blue ground flags are flying all over Belgian Congoland today to celebrate the thirty-seventh anniversary of the proclamation of the Congo Free State, which has, since 1885, by deed of gift of the late King Sovereign of that state, Leopold II, become a real overseas possession of Belgium.

It would be idle to say that all the native population share the joy of today's festival. Thousands upon thousands of them hate the white man and probably millions of them have good grounds for abhorring a government which finds any justification in the system of forced labor—so many days work monthly for the benefit of the Government—which has gradually replaced the slave trade.

Though the days of "red rubber" are gone forever, some of the warlike tribes of the Great Lakes and other back-woods settlements where white men are in a negligible minority, are yearning for an African "Lincoln" who will make them free in spirit as well as in the letter.

Unlike the colored people of the French possessions in Africa, the natives of Congoland do not enjoy political rights and are thus unrepresented.

The native reformers, who dared champion causes that were unpopular with the European rulers, have been rounded up on charges of sedition. Some have been put to death. There is not a Southern state in the America Union where the negro does not enjoy more political freedom than in this vast Belgian territory of Africa.

Poincare's Reply To Berlin Unrelenting

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 2.—The text of M. Poincare's reply to Germany's request for a reduction of the instalments payable to her private creditors shows that France requires assurance that the full amount of £2,000,000 will be paid by August 15.

Coercive measures are threatened in the absence of such assurance by August 5.

The Note adds that a very complete plan of such measures has been decided on but will not be disclosed at present.

Peking Chamber Asks Palace Control

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 31.—The Peking Chinese Chamber of Commerce has sent a petition to the President urging that the portion of the Winter Palace recently thrown open to the public should be placed under the administration of the Local-Government Association.

Pending the re-establishment of local self-government this area should remain under the control of the Ministry of the Interior, and not be handed over to any other organ they assert.

AMERICAN FLIER TELLS PLANS FOR BALLOON RACE

(China Press Service)

Geneva, July 30.—H. E. Honeywell, pilot of the "Uncle Sam," one of the three American entries in the International balloon race for the Gordon Bennet Cup, start from Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 6, hopes to win first place by flying as low as possible and remaining in the air longer than other entrants, thereby making a greater distance.

Expecting to land in Russia, Capt. Honeywell said his plan of flight probably would be different from that of most of his opponents in the race, which is the fourth international event he has entered.

"Other entrants probably will fly over the Alps," he continued, "and the altitude necessary to accomplish this will greatly shorten their time in the air, and their distance. A balloon which flies over the Alps cannot stay in the air more than 24 hours.

"I expect to get out of Switzerland either through the Rhone Valley to the South or through the Rhine Valley on the North. I want to fly as low as possible, keeping always below 8,000 feet if I can manage it—and will be able therefore to remain in the air perhaps as long as 48 hours.

"If I find it necessary to cross any mountains, I may have to rise to 18,000 feet or more, but this I hope to avoid. If my plans go as I expect, I will land in Russia."

During his career as a balloonist, Honeywell declared he has made nearly 600 flights, having participated in more than [illegible] races in which he always has ranked high in honors. He holds many distance and endurance trophies, and probably has the experience of flying in more parts of the world than any other balloonist.

Probably his most adventurous flight was in the international race from Stuttgart, Germany in 1912. He flew 1,350 mile and landed in Russia, 100 miles west of Moscow. His balloon was torn to pieces and used for clothing by the peasants and he was held by the Russian authorities for almost a week suspected of being a spy. The American consul effected his release. Then, again in 1920 he covered more than 1,000 miles winning the American race from Birmingham. He landed in Canada.

If Honeywell should be successful in winning the race from Geneva he will obtain possession of the Gordon Bennett Cup, a silver trophy, which he retains until the next international race. The country whose entrant wins has the privilege of fixing the place and date of the race for the following year.

Honeywell is 49 years old and served in both the Spanish American and the world war. He was an official of a balloon manufacturing concern until the United States Government took over the manufacture of balloons and the company went out of business. His wife and daughter accompanied him to Geneva to see the start of the race.

Thirty Dead In Odd Railway Accident

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 2.—It is now stated that 30 persons were killed in the Villecontal railway accident. The injured include six women, who are in a grave condition.

Paris, August 2.—Graphic details of the accident at Villeconal yesterday show that the trains were crowded with pilgrims, many of whom were blind and crippled.

The driver of the first engine which was crawling up an incline discovered that the train was overloaded and that the driving wheels refused to grip the rails.

The train slipped back with increasing momentum.

The driver of the second train saw the runaway approaching and applied his brakes but was unable to avoid the crash.
